1. (All sit)

Official Welcome by Local Representatives

2. (All stand)

The Horn of the Nation, with the Proclamation of the Gorsedd and its Watchwords

Herald Bard, to the Horner

To Cornwall, Horner, sound your Horn, That its four corners it may warn.

The Horner then sounds to the four parts of Cornwall, saying to each quarter in its turn

Cornwall of the East, hear the call of the Gorsedd!

Cornwall of the South, hear the call of the Gorsedd!

Cornwall of the West, hear the call of the Gorsedd!

Cornwall of the North, hear the call of the Gorsedd!

After each call, all the Bards cry: Klew!

Grand Bard

The Gorsedd of the Bards of Cornwall!

The Truth against the World!

Cornwall, Peace and Love!

Grant, O God, Thy Protection,
And in Protection, Power,
And in Power, Wisdom,
And in Wisdom, Knowledge,
And in Knowledge, Knowledge of what is Just,
And in Knowledge of what is Just, the Love of it,
And from Loving, to Love all Existence,
And in all Existence to Love God:
God and all Goodness

The Cry of Peace before Opening the Gorsedd

Grand Bard Once I ask you: Is there Peace?

All Bards Peace!

Grand Bard Twice I ask you: Is there Peace?

All Bards Peace!

Grand Bard Thrice I ask you: Is there Peace?

All Bards Peace!

Grand Bard

Since there is Peace, then let us proceed.

Before the Sun, the Eye of the Day,

The Gorsedd is opened.

5. (All Sit) Joining of the swords

Grand Bard Representatives from Wales, Brittany and Cornwall come forward for the Joining of the Sword.

(When the Representatives are gathered before the Men Ombordh, the Grand Bard continues):

Grand Bard

Heart to heart

Yet a sea yet a Briton,

This split sword

Which before us is joined,

Is a symbol of the Celtic Peoples,

Scattered across the world,

And recognised under many names.

But remain always united,

Through links of the Spirit, the Heart and the Soul,

May we continue to be united,

And we will be respected!

We will work with the thought of the restitution of language and our culture.

To be prepared for the day when Arthur awakens!

Heart to heart

Yet a sea yet a Briton

(The Cornish and Breton representatives come to the Men Omborth with their half of the Sword, and give the two parts to the Grand Bard, who will join the two halves together and then give the complete Sword to the Welsh representative. After, the Breton representative climbs onto the Men Omborth and the Cornish representative returns to their place in the Circle.)

Offering of the Fruits of the Earth

Swordbearer

By your leave, gracious Lady, we will advance.

Lady of Cornwall

Proceed, and I will follow.

And then to the Grand Bard

Fruit of the World, plants with seeds,
God has given to the people of the world,
We receive them through his grace,
Let there be thanks to the dear Father.
As a token of his wholesome gifts,
Please take this Offering,
As from the Hearth of Cornwall.

Grand Bard

According to God's promise so just
Which never will be abandoned,
Never shall his gifts fail
Until the end of the World:
I accept the good Offering
Mindful of God the Father's pledge;
On behalf of the Bards of Cornwall.

Hymna

Hymn

There is a land full of happiness,
Where saints live forever;
Light continues truly everyday,
Never comes any pain.

One finds there glorious Spring,
And never-withering flowers; Death, I
Like a narrow sea, divides
Divides us from that land.

If we could we stand upon the hill
Where Moses stood before;
Although there might be a cold tumult against us, We do not fear the way.

Initiation of New Bards

Swordbearer Do you swear on this sword to be faithful to Cornwall our Celtic nation?

New bards We swear it.

The Grand Bard, holding the joined hands of the Initiate between his own, receives him, naming him by his Bardic Name.

We gladly you, among the Bards of the Cornish Gorsedd.

11. (All remain seated) Short Addresses

A welcome from the Grand Bard to the Delegates bringing Greetings from the other Gorseddau.

12. (All stand) Song: Hail to the Homeland

Hail to the homeland! -great bastion of the free.
Hear now thy children proclaim their love for thee;
Ageless thy splendour- undimmed that Celtic flame,
Proudly our souls reflect the glory of thy name.

Sense now the beauty - the peace of Bodmin Moor,
Ride with the breaker towards the Sennen shore;
Let firm hands fondle the boulders of Trencrom,
Sing with all fervour then the great Trelawny song.

Hail to the homeland! – of thee we are a part,
Great pulse of freedom in every Cornish heart.
Prompt us and guide us – endow us with thy power
Lace us with liberty to face this changing hour.

13. (All stand) The Sword of Arthur

Deputy Grand Bard.

Still Arthur watches our shore,
alive in the body of the Chough;
His Kingdom still Arthur owns,
A king he has been and will be.

All the Bards. King Arthur is not dead!

Grand Bard All Bards, come to the Men Omborth!

When every Bard is standing at the Rock with his/her right hand on the shoulder of the Bard in front, so that all are linked to the one who has his/her hand on the sword, the Grand Bard continues by saying:

Bardh Meur

Ottomma Kledha eus yn le Kalespulgh, Kledha Myghtern Arthur, a dheuth dhyworth an Logh, ha dhe'n Logh eth arta. A vynnowgh hwi ti warnodho bynitha bos lel dhe Gernow, agan Mammvro?

Grand Bard

Here is the sword which represents Excalibur, the sword of King Arthur, which came from the Lake and went to the Lake again.

Will you swear upon it to be ever loyal to Cornwall, our Motherland?

All the Bards We swear it!

14. (All remain standing) Song: Old Land of our Fathers

Old Land of our fathers thy children love thee,
Dear land of the west, what country's like thee?
O'er all the world we are scattered abroad,
But all our love is thine.
Cornwall! Cornwall! we love Cornwall;
While the sea's around thee like a wall.
We are One and All for Cornwall!

Kingdom of King Arthur, the Saints and the Grail
More loved by us is no other land
In thee every carn, valley, hill and house
Speaks in Cornish to us.

Cornwall! Cornwall! we love Cornwall;
While the sea's around thee like a wall.
We are One and All for Cornwall!

All Cry Cornwall for ever!
